Duxbury Clipper

Steven Tyler and Joe Perry at Duxbury Beach

On July 1st, New Englanders finally had a beautiful summer day with blue skies. I went down to the beach to photograph The Duxbury Free Library's 11th annual sand castle contest when I happened upon Steve Tyler and Joe Perry of Aerosmith taping a music segment for the ESPY Awards to be aired on ESPN on July 16th. A crowd had been gathering all day on and around the bridge leading to the beach in hopes of seeing and hearing the local boys. Tyler and Perry wound up the crowd with a new tune.

Perry and Tyler rode across the Powder Point Bridge in style.

Tyler gives a dynamic show while the camera rolls.

Maria Battista and camera girl Karyn Sampson excitedly wait on the bridge for Perry and Tyler to ride off on their motorcycles. It is their first time getting an up close view of the duo. Sampson said, "The day has been awesome."

Aerosmith fans get a front view of the stage set up in the parking lot overlooking the bay.
